

LO: To write a setting description.

Adverbial opener
for where

Ing opener

Colon to start a

Adverbial I opener
for when

Year 5/6 spelling

Hyphen

Brackets for parenthesis

Ed opener

Consistent, neat
cursive handwriting

High above the dense vegetation of the Forest Floor, you shall find the Canopy Hovering above the Under-Story (and the Forest Floor) To the Canopy is full of different animals: birds singing, hippos having showers and wild cats as stealthy as spies. In the evening, the rain <sup>will</sup> start to splash on your feet. The Amazon is full of exotic plants and animals with colourfull, multi-coloured shades of all the colours in the rainbow mixed together to create different shades. Excited monkeys who were chattering here and there <sup>give</sup> gave a loud loud warning if you felt the leaves with different shapes and sizes.

RAIN FORESTS!

Title

Rainforests are like a forest habitat full of trees and <sup>some</sup> dry land; they are nearest to the equator. They are full of ingredients for medicines that cure cancer and many other illnesses. They are called rainforests because they get plenty of rain every year. Exploring the vast, humid rainforest covered with different layers; Emergent, Canopy, Understorey and Forest floor Rainforests hold 20% of the oxygen we need to survive. - which is a v f * sentence lot.

Technical vocabulary

Conjunction

Ing opener

Adverbial opener for where

Canopy Layer

Subheading

Below the Emergent, above the Understorey, lies the Canopy (which might just be the most fascinating layer of the rainforest). Protected by meat eating animals, the Canopy Layer has plenty of food for the animals who live there.

Relative clause with brackets

Hyphen

Colon to start a list

- squirrel monkeys
- bats
- snakes
- tree frogs

Conjunction

Simile

In this layer, there is a lot of life because 90% of the rainforest animals live in the Canopy. The Canopy is like an umbrella due to the fact that, plants underneath get very little rain and sunlight.

Consistent, neat cursive handwriting